INDIAN COMMISSIONER SAYS THE RACE IS NOT DYING OFF.

In His Annual Report He Asserts Redmen Are as Numerous as They Were in the Days of Columbus.

Washington, Nov. 11.—The report of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs has been submitted to the Secretary of the Interior. The Commissioner asserts that the Indian race is not dying off, but is as numerous as they were in the days of Columbus. He says that the Indian population of the United States is now about 250,000, and that the number of Indians is increasing in many sections of the country. He also says that the Indian race is not dying off, but is as numerous as they were in the days of Columbus.

Annals distributed last year aggregated $1,200,000, the per capita figure from $20 down to 50 cents. The report says that the Indian race is not dying off, but is as numerous as they were in the days of Columbus. He also says that the Indian race is not dying off, but is as numerous as they were in the days of Columbus.

Problem of the Trust Fund.
The ultimate disposition of the Indian trust fund is a subject for the most serious consideration. In some cases, they are small and in others very large. With respect to the latter, the disposition is difficult. It is admitted that great wealth is a source of weakness to any Indian tribe and that the gradual extinction of these funds, as the Commissioner says, is a sufficient sum to maintain the Indian race.

In his own handwriting, of his own accord, and in his own way, Rev. Kemp tells of the merit of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.
Indiana Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.
Rising Sun, Ind., Sept. 11, 1899.
Pepin-Syrup Co., Monticello, Ill.
Gentlemen, For years I have been a victim of constipation, and have tried a great many remedies, but have never found anything equal to your Syrup of Pepsin. I have also suffered from indigestion which caused irregular heart action. A physician, who treated me for some time, told me the irregular pulsation could not be relieved, but after taking nearly two bottles of your medicine my heart has become regular in action. I do not hesitate to recommend it.
Very Respectfully,
R. Kemp,
Pastor, M. E. Church.
